

ALL THE NEWS OF DUKE OF KENDAL'S BAD RACE NOW "EXPLAINED"

Did Not Wear Blinkers When the Public Backed Him, but Did on the Day He Won, When Some One Made a Big Killing in the Ring.

It is explained that Duke of Kendal ran badly on May 27 because he did not wear blinkers. That was the day the public backed him. In his next race, on Decoration Day, he wore blinkers, and was at his best, with speed to burn. That was the day his owners, according to ring reports, made a killing. The public, which pays the gate money, which pays the purses and stakes, so that men with horses may race for them, has no opportunity to "get wise" to the partiality of a horse for blinkers until some such trick as this is pulled off. One would naturally think that owners of horses would, in return for the gate money contributed by the public, give them as fair a deal as possible in the running of their horses.

One would think also that racing associations—which chop off the big slice of the public money—would have stewards pay a bit of attention to horses that race without blinkers one day and with them the next day, and a whole lot of attention is paid to this sort of thing in the West. When a horse races without blinkers one day and appears with them the next time out they want an explanation of the shift. They want to know why spurs are worn or left off, and various other little things which the stewards in the East take no notice of. The Western stewards know when a horse wears heavy shoes and when he wears racing plates. The neglect of these matters in the East, small as they appear, is of the utmost importance. The Jockey Club does not appear to think so. It might say: "To question such things would make it appear as if we believed all owners were thieves."

Owners Bland and Childlike.
This world is so good and so pure, and owners are so childlike and innocent in their turf operations, that it would be an injustice, of course, to class these matters as "tricks." In Wall street they take men by the throat, figuratively speaking, and strip them of all their worldly possessions. That is not called robbery, but financing.

If on the race-track a man practices such things as changes in tack and shoes on his horses, he is not a robber but a smart man.

He that gets away with the goods is the one that wins the plaudits of his fellows. People have come to look upon these things as a matter of course, and the strictly honest man has become such a rarity that he is an object of curiosity.

So when a horse runs badly one day and remarkably well another, inquiry is made as to what caused the improvement.

"Well, he wore heavy shoes on the first occasion and plates in the second race."

And the racegoer philosophically accepts the situation. If it is a case of "without blinkers" and "with blinkers," then he is wise, and cannot be fooled that way again. Nor can he be fooled with the plates and shoes game if he takes the trouble to go to the paddock.

Smart players generally take the trouble to learn these things before they place their bets. The public, however, relying strictly on form and the honesty of owners, trainers and jockeys, plays blindly, only to have its eyes opened some days later.

Temptation to Horsemen.
It is a temptation to horsemen to employ these little artifices in racing when the stewards do not ask any questions concerning changes in form. It is an actual fact that a man may run his horses as he pleases in the East, so long as he is not too raw about the matter.

The man in Wall street, the promoter, the franchise-giver, are all regarded with kindly eyes, and it is only when a man wearing a mask and carrying a big gun heaves in sight that people rise up and exclaim "Why! that man is a robber!" So, as long as you do not wear a mask and carry a gun, you may run your horses as you please without awakening alarm.

'TWIN' SULLIVAN WON IN TENTH FROM SCHRECK

(Special to The Evening World.)
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 2.—In one of the fastest and most furious ten-round bouts ever witnessed by the local fight fans Jack "Twin" Sullivan gained the decision in the tenth round over Mike Schreck, of Cincinnati at the Empire Theatre last night. From the very start of the fight not a moment was wasted by either man.

PHILADELPHIA IS AFTER HANLON-M'GOVERN BOUT

The bid from California for the Hanlon-McGovern fight has stirred up many clubs in Philadelphia, and the indications are that when the bids are opened on Monday next there will be a big gun heaves in sight that people rise up and exclaim "Why! that man is a robber!" So, as long as you do not wear a mask and carry a gun, you may run your horses as you please without awakening alarm.

"NASH" TURNER LEADING BOYS RIDING IN FRANCE

"Nash" Turner, who half a dozen years ago was bushwhacking in the northern wilds and making a precarious living by riding the horses of "Irish" Stover, whose other pet name was "The Indian Doctor," is now leading the list of American winning jockeys in France.

HARVARD HAS KICK AGAINST TIGERS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 2.—The Harvard Daily Crimson, in a courteous and straightforward editorial to-day, after expressing the universal opinion of Crimson undergraduates concerning the "seam and the Indian" with which Princeton treats visiting athletic teams, has requested the Daily Princetonian to set forth Princeton's views in regard to systematic attempts to belittle athletic opponents and to tell how far the belief is true that Princeton has tried to do this, or how far misunderstanding may have arisen and dissatisfied.

The members of the New West Side A. C., of which Rodenbach is a member, have arranged to give Rodenbach a banquet in the clubhouse in West Fifty-fourth street, in the near future.

Lynch a Great Pitcher.
Michael J. Lynch, of place "Mike," as he is known by his fellows at Brown University, who has signed to pitch for Pittsburgh, is a highly respected and exceptionally popular student. He is a member of the Psi Upsilon fraternity, whose chapter there is composed of many members of the most prominent Providence families. He is proficient in his studies and he is deeply interested in other sides of college life besides athletics.

Detroit's Poor Management.
The Detroit club has shown enough poor management to put it into the also-ran class. The Tigers once had Jimmy Case on third, Elberfeld at short, Kid Gleason at second and Billy Lush in the outfield. All of those boys were playing great baseball, and think of the good team Detroit would have with them on it.

They bounced Chief Zimmer, manager of the Phillies, and now they are punishing him by forcing him to umpire most of the games they play.

Billy Rodenbach, who recently defeated Sam Berger, the California amateur heavyweight champion, in a limited bout in San Francisco for the amateur heavyweight championship of the world, will arrive in Jersey City over the Erie Railroad at 6 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Rodenbach left Chicago last night, accompanied by his trainer, Paddy Moran, who went to the coast with him and pushed him for his battle with Berger.
